Refund Policy: Love First trainings are designed to be intensive learning experiences, thus we accept only a small number of participants. For this reason, we ask participants to make a solid commitment upon enrollment. However, if there is a family or health emergency, we provide full tuition reimbursement up to 45 days before the first distance learning class, less credit card processing fees.

After that time, there is no refund unless another qualified person is able to take the participant's place in the training. If so, we will refund the tuition, less credit card processing costs and a $150 administrative fee.
